ANOTHER TROPHY FOR THE OAKLAND PLAYER-

DOUGLAS AND HARRIMAN BOTH BEATEN IN THE SEMI-FINAL ROUND-A

DAY OF SURPRISES.

Walter J. Travis, of the Oakland Golf Club, whose winning ways have been more than once in evidence on the golf links, was the winner of the final und of the Lakewood tournament yesterday. Douglas and Harriman were both defeated in the semi-finals, and R. C. Watson, jr., a Westbrook player, who has never been prominent heretofore, had the distinction of meeting Travis in the final struggle. Watson has the making of a great player," was "Willie" Norton's comment after the match, but it will take time to give him the confidence he needs." In the forenoon Watson met Douglas and for the second time within the week the champion was beaten. As in the previous match, when he lost to Travis, poor putting was the chief defect in his game, but as this is a thing that practice will perfect, his friends feel no uneasiness over his ability to retain the championship title at On-

Mr. Kipling explained to some of his friends that he had always been fond of golf, but that his poor eyesight had never allowed him to play with any success. Mr. Doubleday accompanied the author to the links. Doubleday accompanied the author to the links and is looking after the latter's comfort during his stay in Lakewood.

If the crowd that watched the matches had comwith the expectation of fresh surprises, it got its fill. Watson proved the unexpected factor, beat-ing the champion by 1 up in the semi-finals, after a match that was full of exciting moments. Watson opened by taking the first hole at 3 to 4, and followed it up by winning two more in rapid suc-His approaching and putting were fault less, and it was here that he showed his superiority over Douglas, who in the long game was more than his match. At the end of the first nine Waton was 2 up, an advantage which he increased to 3 up at the eleventh. The fourteenth was halved in 6, poor putting costing each a stroke. Now came a hole for Douglas in a par 3. In going to the sixteenth Douglas drove the green, a distance of 185 yards, and as he went down on his put the hole was his in 2. But on the next the champion landed in the bunker on his tee shot and lost the hole at 5 to 6. Then came the final hole, on which Watson's deadly putting brought him out ahead by

Meanwhile Travis had been having a hot match with Harriman, the metropolitan champion, in the same round, and twenty holes were played before Travis finally won. It was the latter's machinelike accuracy that ultimately told in his favor, for in strokes the two men were only a point apart, Travis taking 86 for the eighteen holes and Harri-man 85. The cards follow:

TRAVIS AND WATSON MEET. This left Travis and Watson as the competitors

for the finals. "Willie" Norton, the Lakewood professional, carried for Travis, while Watson had as his caddle and golfing mentor John Duncan Dunn, formerly the professional at Ardsley. Watson did not hold himself together in this contest as he had in the morning. "I felt confident at the tenth hole," said Travis after the match," that I had him beaten. He showed me there that he would not hold out much longer." But on the opening holes Watson played in masterly style. He took the first in a perfect 3. Travis being weak on the green. The next went to Travis at 4 to 6, but Watson got the third, as Travis sliced his drive, going out of bounds and landing in the bunker on his brassey. The fourth was another good one for Watson, and he took it at 4 to 5. Going for the fifth, Watson went into the road on his second shot, and this gave Travis the chance for which he was looking. The latter was short of the green on his second, but as Watson followed up his poor opening by a series of mishaps Travis got the hole at 5 to 7. The next three holes were halved, and, as Travis from the ninth at 5 to 7, the first part of the journey ended with the score tied. In going for the ninth Watson topped his second from a bad tee, using a brassey, and the ball landed in the bunker. His approach was overdriven and his putting weak.

Travis took the hole at 5 to 7. The tenth proved the real turning-point in the struggle. Watson half-topped his breasey, and both he and Travis flubbed their irons, but the latter won on his superior play on the putting green. Travis was now I up. Going to the eleventh, both got away good drives, cleared the bunkers with their brasseys, and then with their mid-irons reached the green. Each took three puts, and the hole was helved in 6.

their brasseys, and then with their mid-irons reached the green. Each took three puts, and the hole was halved in 6.

On the twelfth Watson foozled his second, a brassey, but the bail struck the top of the cop and bounded over. Travis reached the green in the like, and won the hole at 6 to 7, making him 2 up. On the thirteenth Watson again topped both his drives and brassey, and it was evident that he had lost his nerve. Travis was playing with faultiess accuracy, and the end was almost a foregone conclusion. The fourteenth was halved in a mediocre 6, neither man being good on the greens, and the next was also haived, this time in 4.

The sixteenth hole was the last. Travis, in his segerness to win, instead of contenting himself with g half, overdrove the hole, and in the confusion of the crowd on the green, missed his put, so that the hole was halved in 4. This ended the match, with Travis a winner by 3 up and 2 to go. The cards were:

Though not attracting the attention of the other gontests the consolation matches were ably fought. In the forenoon N. C. Reynal, of the Knollwood Country Club, was paired with F. L. Woodward, of Denver, the only Western representative in the tournament, while Samuel Frothingham had C. L. Tappin, of Westbrook, as his opponent.

Both matches were full of good play, Reynal winning by 2 up, and Frothingham by 3 up and 2 to go. In the afternoon Frothingham met Reynal and was again successful by 3 up and 2 to go. The cards were:

THE OPEN HANDICAP.

The open handicap, which was played in connection with these matches, resulted in victory for Roy de Raismes, of the Lakewood club, who was aided by a generous handicap of 18 strokes. His net score was 74. The card:

Watson, who had been allowed to have his morning card against Douglas count as medal play in the handicap, made the best gross score 33 and won the cup offered for this achievement, making his third in the week. These included the runner-up prize in the match play, second prize in the handicap, and the gross-score cup. His card follows:

FOR THEOSOPHICAL UNION.

A MOVEMENT TO BRING TOGETHER ALL THE

There was a small informal gathering of Theosophists at Lyric Hall yesterday morning, pursuant to a call issued by James M. Pryse, of No. 17 West Ninety-eighth-st., for the purpose of forming a new theosophical society. In the call for the meeting Mr. Pryse sets forth that the object is the formation of a new society of Theosophists ousted from the Universal Brotherhood of Mrs. Katherine Tingley, who was designated as an absolute ruler. Personal motives, the circular says, are to be at-tributed to the leaders of the Universal Brotherhood movement. It says further that there are many Theosophists in the United States who are allied with no society, and who, owing to the disputes and bickerings of the old societies, have kept aloof from them.

There was an evening session, and James M. Pryse was elected chairman. Mrs. Pierson was elected secretary, and she read a resolution calling for an international convention of theosophical societies, to be held in this city on December 31 of this year. This proposition did not seem to meet with much favor, as it was suggested that so small a gathering, none of whom had registered and many of whom were not members of any existing theosophical society, was not in a position to undertake such a responsibility. The motion, after some discussion, was laid on the table.

Then followed a somewhat protracted interchange of views as to what was best to be done, It was suggested that there were already too osophical societies and that the organization of another, no matter how pure and good the purpose might be, would only complicate diffi-culties and accomplish no good result,

The concensus of opinion was that Mr. Pryse should be appointed secretary convention and that he should communicate with the officers of existing organizations with a view to bringing about a conference to discuss the advisability of combining all these bodies in one so-ciety, which should work for the establishment of brotherhood of manking and the purification of the world. If this could not be brought about then there would be time to discuss the question of forming a new society. This idea seemed to be acceptable to most of those present, and a resolution to that effect was adopted, with a suggestion that all present act as missionaries in bringing about a union of existing societies, by visiting these organizations and urging that all should unite in the common cause of bringing mankind al lover the world into closer brotherhood.

There will be a public meeting at Lyric Hall this evening.

Y., April 29 (Special).-At a farewell dinner tendered to him to-night by his friends and former employes in Dolgeville, Alfred Dolge, the well-known feit manufacturer, made serious charges against Justice Hardin, Chief Justice of the Third District of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, and Schuyler Ingham, of Little Falls. He alleged that his financial downfall was due to their work.

ASSEMBLY'S SPEAKER SUFFERING FROM GRIP AND PLEURISY.

Albany, April 29.-The Speaker of the Assembly, 8. Fred Nixon, is lying seriously ill with grip and pleurisy at the Albany Hospital in this city. Mr. Nixon has been fil for the last three days, and it was only by the exercise of the greatest effort that he was able to attend the closing ceremonies of the Legislature yesterday. He broke down while acknowledging the gift of a handsome silver service by the members of the Assembly, and was assisted to his private room by Mr. Allds.

Mr. Nixon is under the care of Dr. Willis G.

Macdonald, of this city. To-night the condition of the patient is declared to be serious.

MR. HOBART STEADILY IMPROVING.

Washington, April 29 (Special).-Vice-President Hobart continues to improve daily. At his home the following statement was made this afternoon: "The Vice-President is better to-day. His improvement for some time has been very steady. He now sits up a good part of each day. He still has medical attendance regularly. The Vice-President, while considerably improved, is not able to go downstairs."

CADETS AT HORSE PLAY.

ROUGH GAMES THAT CALL FOR MUCH SKILL AND MUSCLE.

ARMORY OF SQUADRON A RESOUNDS WITH AP-

PLAUSE FROM DELIGHTED SPECTATORS OF THE YOUTHS' PROWESS The boys who form the cadet corps of Squadron A provided an evening full of the liveliest sort of entertainment for their friends last night by exhibiting their agility in a series of mounted games.

That their friends enjoyed it thoroughly was shown by the fact that the large number of them gathered at the armory, Ninety-fourth-st. and Madison-ave. applauded them heartily. A majority of the specta-It is easy for a young man to entertain his girl flowers or candy; but when it comes to amusing her with such "mounted games" as these cadets play, it is an entirely different thing, involving the receipt of large numbers of smarting blows, much twisting of the neck, wrists and ankles by vigorous young opponents, who desire first prize regardless of the consequences, and imminent danger to limb if not to life from spirited horses which cannot see the fun of having their mouths sawed and spurs thrust into them at the same time. The contest which brought out the wildest enthusiasm from the spectators and the most profuse perspiration from the combatants last night was what is called "the fight to the finish." this eight mounted cadets entered the tanbark arena wearing huge padded helmets and carrying hickory switches as thick as a man's forefinger and about four feet long. These switches had leather hilts to protect the hand, and to each belmet was attached a plume or tuft made of paper. Four cadets had red plumes and four had green. The red men, at the sound of a bugle, fell upon the green men with the fury of redmen, and the green men soon showed the red men that they were not green men at that game. They re turned the attack with such vigor that soon the arena was strewn with strips of red and green paper, which had been cut from the crests of the fighters by blows from the single-sticks; the losers of the game being those young warriors who were deprived of most of their plumage in the fray. THE HORSES GET SQUARE.

And just here is where the horses got square with their riders. A red cadet would aim in all fairness, of course, a tremendous blow at a green cadet's head. At that instant the horses would shift their position a bit and the single-stick would hiss through the air and descend with a resounding smack on the tightened muscles of leg, back arm or thigh, reminding one acutely of schoolboy days, when old-fashioned schoolmasters spared not the rod nor spoiled the child.

The girls in the galleries gave little shricks of sympathy as the blows fell upon their champions, but they did not cry out to have the game stopped, for all that. After what seemed a rather long time for such violent exercise, the trumpet sounded a truce, and the green men were found to retain more of their curl-papers than the red men. The difference was not big, however, and the losers were cheered for their pluck, as well as the win-The wearers of the green were Lieutenant Britton, Corporal Stone, Corporal Heroy and Corporal Du Bois. The reds were Captain Fahe, Quartermaster-Sergeant Keener, Sergeant Green and Artificer Smith. "Pursuit and wrestle" was another game which called for skill and strength. Around the arm of one mounted cadet was tied a handkerchief. After him chased a second mounted cadet, who had made up his mind to tear off that handkerchief at any cost. The pursuit usually did not last long. Soon the two had grappled and this generally resulted in both being pulled from their horses to the in both being pulled from their horses to the ground. There the fierce struggle continued, the cadets rolling over and over in the tanbark, until the handkerchief was yanked away from its owner, or the bugle sounded "time's up." The man who retained it was declared winner. These nine cadets twisted themselves into knots in this contest: Keener, Green, Stone, Du Bois, Smith and Privates Haight, Pikhardt, Reid and Martin. Green took first prize and Smith second.

TEAM WRESTLING

"Team wrestling," another contest of the tourney was played by the cadets dividing into two parties or teams. They then tried all methods of unhorsing one another. The yellow team unhorsed all its opponents first and got the award. The winners were Keener, Du Bois, Reid, Trumpeter Peck and Privates Alker and Williams. The losers were Green, Stone, Smith, Pikhardt, Haight and Private Ballin.
The "double mount" was won by Keener and First Sergeant Barker. Green and Stone came next.

In the "head cutting and pointing" contest Du Bois distanced all competitors. Private Tinker took second place. The others were Green, Smith, and Private Tinker. Not one of them but ran well, Alker, Haight, Pikhardt, Willanse, Mattin, Pikhardt, and Private Tinker. Not one of them but ran well, too.

The potato race evoked much laughter. It was conducted on the familiar lines of the common potato race of North America, with the exception that each cadet had to pick up his potato from the ground without dismounting, a feat calling for much elasticity of limb as well as perfect command over the horse. Private Haight swooped from his saddle upon the little blocks of wood, which did duty as potatoes, with such unerring aim that he won handlily. The fact that he wore spectacles did not seem to incommode him at all. He seems to be able to keep them on while riding, attached only by his toes and one hand to his prancing steed, his nose grazing the ground, just as well as other people can while riding right side up. Tinker finished second.

The tug-of-war was won by the yellow team, consisting of Keener, Du Bois, Alker, Pickhardt and Niles. They took the rope away from Green, Stone, Smith, Haight and Reld, though not without having to put forth every cunce of strength they had left in their bodies.

The purely spectacular features of the programme were a Cossack drill by the "Rough Riding Squad" and an extended order drill by a picked squad, both under command of Captain Faile. These showed that the cadets are well able to sustain, when the time comes, the reputation won by members of Squadron A in the Porto Rican campaign.

Major Oliver B. Bridgman acted as referee, and the judges were Captains Badgley, Reed and Cammann.

WOMAN HAD A HORSEWHIP.

SHE TRIED TO USE IT ON ONE OF HER HUS-

BAND'S PATIENTS - PECULIAR COM-PLICATIONS OF TWO FAMILIES.

The separations of two husbands and their wives ripened into violent quarrels among them last night, which resulted in the two women and one of the men being arrested. The women are Mrs. Henrietta Clark, thirty-three years old, wife of Dr Walter Clark, of No. 73 West One-hundred-and-third-st., and Mrs. Ellen M. Aarons, twenty-nine years old, of No. 51 West One-hundred-and-sixth-st, wife of Alfred E. Aarons, who lives in the Calumet apartment-house, at No. 159 West Thirtyfourth-st

The women met in the street, Mrs. Clark carrying horsewhip, and they tore each other's hair till they were arrested. Both were bailed out. Aarons after hearing of the quarrel, it is alleged, attacked Dr. Clark in his office, and was arrested for assault, but was also bailed out.

Dr. Clark had been treating Mrs. Aarons professionally, and he asserts that Aarons became jealous. Aarons left his wife four weeks ago, and he says she went to live with Dr. Clark.

Mrs. Clark armed herself last night with a horsewhip of red leather, which she held under her cloak as she walked up and down in front of her husband's office. About 9 o'clock Mrs. Aarons appeared. Mrs. Clark walked swiftly toward her and took out the whip. "How dare you?" she shricked, and many persons turned toward her, "how dare you visit my husband?"

The woman was greatly excited, and tried to lash Mrs. Aarons with the whip. The latter caught it and took it away, and lashed Mrs. Clark several times in the face with it. The women clinched and tore each other's hair till the big crowd attracted tore each other's hair till the big crowd attracted Policeman Kearns, of the West One-hundredth-st. station, who arrested them.

"This woman has broken up my home," said Mrs. Clark to Sergeant Wilson, as she wept bitterly. Mrs. Aarons said she was only paying a professional visit to Dr. Clark, and the woman had beaten her with a whip for some reason. The women were placed in a back room and they sent word to friends. Mr. Aarons came up in a little while in evening dress with his brother-in-law James H. Rice. They found that the women had already been bailed.

Aarons went to Dr. Clark's office with Rich. Two other men were there. Aarons was furious. He called Dr. Clark names and asked him to come out into the street. Dr. Clark refused, and Aarons it is alleged, attacked him, striking him several times in the face. The men were separated, and Policeman Kearns, who happened to be on the beat still, arrested Aarons.

Dr. Clarke appeared to be alarmed at Aarons's vehemence, and he told Sergeant Wilson he would like to withdraw the charge, but the sergeant would not allow it. Rich bailed his relative out, and the men went away. Dr. Clark had gone out.

Dr. Clark said afterward: "That man is crazy. I simply treated his wife professionally, and he is jealous."

Dr. Clark said he did not know where Mrs.

Francis Wilson in his original part, will take place on Monday evening. May 15. The theatre will be closed till then.

A special matinee performance of "The Purple Lady" will be given at the Bijou Theatre on Friday of this week.

South American countries are also preparing fine collections of raw products for the permanent exhibit of the museum or are adding to and renewing exhibits already on hand.

Mr. Schoff reports that at Panama, Colombia, the delegation to the congress will be headed by Henry Ehrman, a prominent banker. Governor F. Mutts Duran, of the Department of Panama, has given orders to the prefects in all the districts to gather products for the museum. From Guayaquil, Ecuador, Vincente Gonzales Bazo, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and others will attend, and a good delegation is also assured from Lima, Peru. The indications are that Japan will also be well represented at the congress. Fourteen chambers of commerce of that country are members of the Museum's Foreign Advisory Board, and a number of others have also been invited to send delegates. Yesterday a letter written in Japanese characters was received from the Chamber of Commerce at Hokata. It stated that the invitation had been received and accepted, and the delegate was on his way. His name is Mitsutake Takahashi, and he sailed from Yokohama for England on March 1. He will arrive in Philadeiphia in time to see an American Fourth of July celebration.

GRIM HUMOR OF BATTLE.

THE IGOROTTES' ATTACK ON THE WAR-SHIP MONADNOCK.

Sergeant King, in The Minneapolis Messenger. Sergeant King, in The Minneapolis Messenger. War at best is hell. After the thin vell of glamour, frenzy and glory is drawn aside there is nothing left save the bleaching skeletons and the desolate homes. In battle there is the screech of shells and the dull report of their explosion, the thunder of field pieces, sending pounds of solid steel toward an enemy; there is the rattle of small arms, like the roll of distant drums, the bilnding smoke, the singing of Mausers and the hum of Remingtons; there is the chatter of affrighted monkeys, the scoldings of parrots, the howls of slinking curs, and then, in the wake of the victors, arise the smoke and flame of burning huts. Add to this pandemonium the hoarse yells of the combatants, the cries um the hoarse yells of the combatants, the cries of homeless women and children, the groans of the wounded, the set faces of the dead, and one may have a faint conception of a small engage-ment in a tropic land.

During the first engagement, while the company was firing at will into the woods ahead, a forlorn water buffalo, the national beast of bur-den, meandered into the ricefield directly in front of the line. The writer immediately directed his fire toward the buffalo with no apparent result. Afterward, during a lull in the firing, we shamefully confessed to having wasted our strength in this ignoble manner, and were surprised to learn that every man had done like-wise. At all events, the beast made good its escape, for it patiently plodded ahead until the timber swallowed it up.

During the charge at Caloocan a frenzied pig of diminutive size dashed from beneath a bamboo hut, and, apparently, judging that all the commotion was for his benefit, thought best to retire. As the pig dashed past the writer gently assisted with a shove from the butt our gun and thought no more of it for so time. Afterward, upon glancing to the rear, we saw four or five soldiers in hot pursuit of the same poor little swine. It is laughable, even in times of peace, to watch another man chase a hog, but when men forsake their places, forget the roar of conflict, the hum of bullets, the shouts of the victors and the wails of the wounded to grapple with an eight-pound shoat, the scene becomes ludicrous in the extreme. We took the trouble to learn that the pig got away

The Filipinos are natural born musicians, and their band entertains us with such tunes as "After the Ball," "Hot Time," "Stand Up for Jesus," "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Throw Out the Lifeline." It is a mystery where and when they learned these American melodies, but the fact remains that they do know them and render the same with remarkknow them and render the same with remark-able accuracy. The Filipino has great contempt for the Chinaman as a fighter, hence a favorite yell of the insurgents is: "Americano v Chino agual!" (American and Chinaman equal). This agual!" (American and Chinaman equal). This sally always brings forth the heartiest applause from listening retels. We were much amused last night by one. "Ready! Aim! Fire!" cried he, and laughed loudly at his own wit. A few nights since, one of our buglers played "taps," and immediately some natives began the "reveille," intimating that no sooner would we be in bed than we must, of necessity, arise.

A most distressing accident befell a hoatload of Igorrotes not long since. It was in this wise: The monitor Monadnock lies just off Malabon, and at night lights up the whole country with its searchlight. The wild men did not exactly admire this method of competing with the sun, so bethought themselves of a plan to capture the floating fort. Accordingly a large rowboat was procured and speedily filled with an aggregation of these patriots. Having approached within a hundred yards, the barbarlans discharged a volley of steel-tipped arrows and waited patiently in the hope of seeing the ship sink. The Monadnock discharged a three-inch gun in teturn. So far, three arms, two wisdom teeth, parts of four legs and a piece of wood have been recovered. It is feared that some of the natives were killed.

mer time from the Spanish. They attempted to fire one of these, with direful results. The Americans collected the remains of twenty rebels killed by the explosion of the gun. The insurgents had not the courage to fire the re-maining cannon, which was loaded and primed when Caloocan was captured. The natives had maining cannon, which was loaded and primed when Caloocan was captured. The natives had loaded the gun with a complete curiosity shop. The cannon was filled with solssors, knives, coal, pleces of brick, nails, bolts, a thermometer, a horseshoe, a car link, a plece of rubber hose, and, to crown ail, a large quantity of hoop iron had been driven into the muzzle so tightly that it was necessary to file it before the charge could be drawn. A double dose of powder was found, and also a quantity of dynamite. No wonder the other cannon exploded.

Be it remembered that M is the color company, and as such received more attention than the other commands. Before the battle of Caloocan, Colonel Funston rode up to the colors with the remark: "Remember, boys, that when the colors fail you are supposed to be dead." "That is the way I understand it." said John stoutly. "You'll do," replied the colonel, as he rode down the line. And John did do. During the battle the colors were struck four times and the staff twice, a Mauser bullet grazed John's cheek, and still the colors floated, and by their presence incited the boys to do miracles.
